

The President's Back-to-School Message for Students

On Tuesday, September 8, 2009, at noon, the President will deliver a fifteen to twenty minute speech to the nation's children and youth focusing on succeeding in school.

The context of the President's speech will be made available to the public on Monday, September 7, 2009. It can be accessed through the White House Website (<http://www.whitehouse.gov/live/>).

Our School District will be recording the address, affording our teachers the opportunity to review it as to future use taking into consideration their group's age and the content being taught.

We will make the parent community aware prior to its use.