CANTON HIGH SCHOOL

Is committed to the pursuit of lifelong learning with the highest standard of integrity, respect for individual points of view, and a broad understanding of community and global diversity, promoted through curiosity, collaboration, and perseverance.

THE SCHOOL AND COMMUNITY

Canton, Connecticut, is a suburban community of around 10,000 located fifteen miles west of the city of Hartford. Part of the historic and beautiful Farmington Valley, residents commute to work in large industries, especially defense and insurance, in the capital area. Many others are employed in numerous small business enterprises in the community. Canton was ranked one of the best small towns in the country by BudgetTravel Magazine.

Canton High School, founded as Collinsville High School in 1854, is a small, high-quality institution with an enrollment of 480 students in grades 9-12. Accredited by NEASC, Canton High School offers a full complement of advanced and varied academic opportunities, co-curricular clubs, and strong athletic programs.
